

Deputy Director International Programmes, Wits Business School
Head of Graduate Recruitment, Wits Business School

Charisse holds a Bachelor of Arts (Industrial Psychology) from Wits and joined the WBS as Graduate Recruitment Officer in 2001. In 2004, she assumed an additional portfolio in International Programmes and in 2007 was appointed as Deputy Director of International Programmes for the WBS.

Charisse is responsible for the co-ordination of all graduate recruitment initiatives for MBA and PDM students, including the annual Graduate Recruitment Programme and Academic Internship Programmes. She runs workshops on intra-organisational effectiveness, personal branding, networking, CV and cover letter writing, career and job search strategy and interview skills; and consults on personal branding and effectiveness, employment opportunities, career and job search strategy, interview skills and CV formulation and critique.

In addition, Charisse manages in-bound international programmes, which range from short (one day) programmes to intensive academic discovery and learning programmes for international universities and business schools, as well as both faculty and MBA student exchanges.

She is currently completing her Master of Management; her research thesis is entitled “A Phenomenographic Study of Experiential Learning within a South African MBA Context”.
