MASTER OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION
I attended the International Executive Development Program at the Wits Business School (WBS) in 2011 and that experience had left me enthused to read for an MBA. The decision to go the fulltime route was not an easy one but the experience has been so rich and rewarding that I haven’t had a moment’s regret. I found the course content to be extremely relevant to the ever-changing ‘global’ world of work and the more I learnt, the more I found myself enquiring and needing to learn. Engaging with subject matter experts, many of whom are not just academics but esteemed professionals in the corporate world has made the learning experience for me that much more relevant and refreshing. If you want to stretch your capabilities, challenge your thinking and broaden your horizon then the WBS MBA is a must!

Curriculum

An innovation to be introduced in 2016 is the refocusing of the independent study component of the MBA. This will now be completed in two sections. The first one is the Leadership Quest which is focused on the students and the development of their leadership capability.

The second part is a choice of one out of four major projects. These are: a consulting project, a social entrepreneurship project, a business venture proposal or a research report.

These two projects will facilitate the students to become the best leaders they are capable of becoming. The choice of projects also gives the students flexibility to research in an area that is linked to their future careers.
Having previously completed the PDM, my initial hesitation in enrolling for an MBA quickly changed into an invaluable experience at the Wits Business School. The value I have derived from the programme has gone beyond all my expectations as I have had exposure to some world class lecturers, great set of classmates, great facilities, some of the most insightful guest speakers as well as an opportunity to travel to Asia on an international elective. The Wits MBA programme has challenged me and as such has indeed prepared me for my future career as well as moulded me to understand business as well as its impact on society as a whole. I am proud to be part of this community.

The following five key themes will provide a network of golden threads through the MBA curriculum. These themes are designed to tie the curricula closely to the strategy of the Wits Business School, and provide a unique selling point that makes the MBA relevant to the significant challenges of doing business in South Africa, Africa and other dynamic emerging market economies.

CONTEXT IN SOUTH AFRICA
WBS is uniquely positioned to provide a forum from which students can emerge with a deep and practical understanding of the challenges that face South Africa as a nation, and the role that business has to play in creating a sustainable social compact. Wits has a history of engaging with difficult and wicked problems in our society, and WBS intends to build on that historical legacy to create PGDip and MBA programmes that are intensely engaged with and sensitised to our context.

CONTEXT IN AFRICAN AND OTHER DYNAMIC EMERGING MARKET ECONOMIES
Similarly, as a leading business school in Africa we need to be engaged with the challenges and opportunities presented by the continent as well other dynamic emerging market economies. This theme also speaks directly to the WBS vision of engendering enterprising action in such economies. Whilst we are entirely cognisant of the divergence and richness of the many countries in Africa, we want to ensure that our graduates emerge from our classrooms and experiential learning activities with the knowledge and skills to engage across the continent in constructive ways that will enhance development in multiple dimensions.

SUSTAINABILITY
Sustainability is a multi-faceted theme that pertains to all types of organisations—financial, social, environmental, ethical, legal and so on. WBS graduates will have a strong grasp of the role of business in society and the important role they play in the reconstruction and economic development of the communities in which they are situated. At the same time businesses are responsible in terms of the environment and the societal impact of their activities.

ENTREPRENEURIAL ACTION
While entrepreneurship is a core course on the MBA programme, all courses in the PDM and MBA talk to entrepreneurial action as innovative action within existing and new ventures. The present business environment is filled with many contradictions where the “dominant logic” of a company previously considered optimal, may well be inappropriate. Recent calls have been made to restructure the business and financial sectors to make capitalism work again; specifically to guard against reckless disregard of uncertainty, while reviving innovativeness in business.

CRITICAL ENGAGEMENT
The WBS MBA graduate will be enabled to engage critically with and about business. A benefit of the Wits programme is that our graduates are taken seriously by their colleagues and peers throughout the world on the basis of the relevance of their contribution, in whatever domain they choose to follow their career. The Wits MBA curriculum creates an implicit mental model that is relevant and appropriate, so that graduates are able to create value for themselves and the businesses and communities in which they operate.
AN APPLIED LEARNING APPROACH
The MBA programme at WBS is intense and demanding, yet at the same time an incredibly enriching and rewarding experience for students.

OUR TEACHING METHOD
Our philosophy of teaching is based on the Socratic method where students prepare for lectures and then engage in conversations about the material. We use a very interactive approach based mainly on case studies, many of which are written by our own case centre on South African organisations. Our cases include those on SABMiller, FNB, Nando’s, Discovery Health, Capitec Bank, Young Designer’s Emporium, Montecasino and many others.

CASE STUDY CENTRE
Learning from experience is one of the most valuable ways business people can learn. Our case study centre was created to provide local lessons for our students. The case study centre provides real-life scenarios and real world business challenges that are thrust into the classroom. The studies cover aspects such as:

- management
- strategy
- marketing
- organisational design and development
- entrepreneurship
- finance
- innovation
- internationalisation; and
- people management.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR INTERNATIONAL STUDY
As one of the best universities in the world, Wits recognises the importance of being part of creative, innovative, intellectual networks. WBS has close links with other business schools such as Insead, Duke and London Business School. A major advantage for our students is the option to undertake their electives internationally. For many students, this is the highlight of their MBA and allows them to have the perfect mix of local and international knowledge. This is brought about through our membership of the Programme in International Management (PIM). This is an incredible network of 60 leading business schools around the world, and WBS is the only African business school to be admitted as a member.
Our professors and lecturers all have their areas of research and publish regularly, and deliver conference papers at colloquia held around the globe. Besides the faculty’s research output each year, a number of outstanding MBA student research reports are published in leading academic journals.

BUSINESS ORIENTATION

Besides full-time faculty, WBS has a number of part-time lecturers who work in organisations and then contribute to the programme. In this way, students are exposed to a blend of academic knowledge and practical application.

To keep students abreast of what is current in business trends, most modules include guest lecturers who share their knowledge and experience.

‘Thought Leader Evenings’ are networking events where a leading socio-political or business figure in the country presents a topical issue to spark a debate among students.

FACULTY

You will be taught by our faculty that has some of the highest-rated researchers in the country, and boasts the highest percentage of PhDs of any business school faculty in South Africa. The local faculty is supported by visiting professors from leading business schools in Europe, America and India.

SPECIALISING

The WBS MBA Programme allows students to select electives from distinctive areas of emphasis namely:

1. Dynamic economies and innovation
2. Managing for sustainability
3. Finance
4. Leading organisations in a complex environment
5. General management

RESEARCH

Our professors and lecturers all have their areas of research and publish regularly, and deliver conference papers at colloquia held around the globe. Besides the faculty’s research output each year, a number of outstanding MBA student research reports are published in leading academic journals.
PERSONALISED CAREER DEVELOPMENT AND COACHING

Personal career development is a vital concern of students. Our students are encouraged to participate in comprehensive career management activities. The services offered by the Career Management team include:

- Career counselling and advisory;
- Employment consultation;
- CV & cover letter formulation and critique;
- Mock interviews;
- Career workshops;
- Company workshops and competitions;
- Annual Career Fair; and
- Graduate recruitment and networking events.

A very useful aspect of the Wits MBA programme is the Career Fair and annual graduate recruitment programme, where employers are invited to present their company profiles and career opportunities to MBA students. A cocktail party follows each presentation at which students can meet prospective employers and network.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR INTERNATIONAL STUDY

One of the popular courses on the MBA is an international study tour. In the recent past, groups have visited Latin American countries such as Brazil, Chile and Argentina. Other group destinations are visits to the East, including China and India.

These visits highlight the parallels and distinctions in terms of best practice learnings from other complex emerging markets. They are also designed to expose students to leading companies in the countries visited, as well as to develop an appreciation for their economies.

These international business trips are considered by many students to be a major highlight of the MBA programme. They are both fun and educational. Feedback from groups is always positive and many comment on the great value of the insights they gained from the wide range of companies and countries visited.
In keeping with the overall vision and mission of the university, the WBS Alumni Office works at maintaining a lifelong relationship with alumni through opportunities and benefits that promote interaction and engagement with WBS, and facilitate alumni’s contribution to the advancement and success of the School.

The first MBA class graduated in 1971 and WBS is proud of its 3,000 plus alumni and the network which extends worldwide across a variety of continents, organisations and professions.

To provide support to our alumni network, WBS and the Wits Business School Alumni Association endeavour to promote, facilitate and enhance business connections and networking opportunities and interactions between alumni, nationally and internationally.

This they achieve through a variety of activities and events, including alumni days, gala dinners and fundraisers worldwide. The WBS Alumni Association also encourages alumni to assist current students and support the School where possible.

We are proud to number amongst our alumni successful leaders of organisations such as Connie Nkosi (Lidonga Holdings) the first Black woman to graduate with an MBA in South Africa, Mark Lamberti (Transaction Capital Imperial), Norman Adami (SABMiller), Maurice Radebe (Sasol Oil), Sifiso Dabengwa (MTN Group – Africa), and Andy Higgins (Bid or Buy), among many others who have made great contributions to local and overseas organisations.

The WBS Experience

Coming from a health sciences background, I chose to complete the MBA to expand my career options. I was attracted to the Wits Business School due to the practical approach to teaching and their integrated exchange program with countless affiliate universities that I knew would give me the edge. I took on the ‘IE Business School experience’ in Madrid, which afforded me the opportunity to undertake a variety of electives as well as expand my network internationally. The Wits MBA has given me the confidence and knowledge that anything is possible.

What I found singularly valuable was the conscious application of cutting edge global technical concepts and general theories to emerging market environments, particularly on the South African and the broader African contexts. That makes me extremely relevant and able to add immediate value to any organisation in South Africa today. Through rigorous case studies, my MBA has certainly given me the confidence, almost the assurance, that there is no managerial challenge that is too big for me to face in the real world today. The depth of knowledge and the insights evidenced by the academic staff gives the Wits MBA that extra something special. And they mostly try to make it fun too.

Our WBS campus in Parktown, Johannesburg, is custom-built to facilitate face-to-face learning. All our classrooms have state-of-the-art audio-visual and are based on the Harvard Business School’s horseshoe shape to stimulate interaction between students and lecturers.

Our belief that meaning comes through dialogue is supported by plentiful small group meeting rooms, so that students may work collaboratively on organisation-based projects. These so-called ‘syndicate rooms’, gathered alongside all the classrooms for ease of use, are available 24 hours a day.

The campus boasts a well-stocked library, commonly known as the WBS Management Library. The library not only services the day-to-day research and information needs of students, but also predominates as a management research archival repository for Wits University, holding a reserve of over 45 years of MBA and other management discipline research theses. The library holds over 15,000 volumes of books and collections, and subscribes to over 200 database journals. The new imperative for 21st century adaptation is now on also accumulating e-book repositories for Wits University, on a wide range of management sciences, including a plethora of commerce and business focused publications.

WBS has a well-equipped student computer laboratory and a high speed link to the internet. Wi-Fi is available throughout the campus.

An on-site canteen caters for all students needs, especially for those numerous cups of coffee that fuel the academic debate.

The historical landmark of Mike’s Kitchen is a stone’s throw away from the school, and is a popular watering hole for students.
